Financial Health means saving now and being prepared for the future

Take steps to save money now through a Flexible Spending Account (FSA) and by planning for the future with protection from Voluntary Benefits for when unexpected issues come up. It pays to be prepared.

THE FSA DIFFERENCES

Unclear on the differences between a Medical Expense FSA and Dependent Care FSA? Here's an explanation to help you understand!

At your Open Enrollment, the funds you allocate into either a Medical Expense FSA or Dependent Care FSA are set aside from your salary before taxes are deducted from your paycheck—allowing you to pay your eligible FSA expenses tax-free. Then, you claim reimbursement of these funds whenever you incur an eligible FSA expense and you get your money back fast.

The differences between the two FSAs are simple.

MEDICAL EXPENSE FSA

- A Medical Expense FSA allows you to put money aside for out-of-pocket health care costs.
- You save money on eligible medical expenses, such as: prescriptions, co-payments and doctor's office fees not covered by your medical insurance.
- Your total annual contribution is available to you on the first day of your plan year.
- There is no waiting for funds to accumulate in your account to pay for your eligible medical expenses.
- Check out the list of eligible medical expenses at www.myfbmc.com.

DEPENDENT CARE FSA

- A Dependent Care FSA helps you pay for the care of dependent loved ones while you are at work.
- You can be reimbursed for daycare, nursery or summer camp expenses for your eligible dependents.
- You may also be reimbursed for dependent care for an elderly or disabled relative for in-home care or care at a qualifying facility.
- Funds accumulate in your FSA on a per pay period basis to use toward eligible Dependent Care FSA expenses.

For details go to www.abc.com to view your 2015 Benefits Guide or www.myfbmc.com or contact FBMC Benefits Management Customer Care 1-XXX-XXXX.

VOLUNTARY BENEFITS PROTECTION

Your Spring Benefits Enrollment is the time to review and enroll in your voluntary benefits plans. You can choose from more than one insurance provider and plan type.

This means that protecting yourself financially from the cost of Critical Illness and Long-Term Care is more important than ever. Surviving a Critical Illness and living a long life are positive outcomes that can be diminished by dire financial circumstances if you do not have the right protection in place. That is why employees of ABC have access to additional voluntary benefit plans that can provide important financial protections.
